St. Teresa of Jesus (October 15th)

She was born into a noble family of Jewish converts in Avila, Spain in 1515. At nineteen, she entered the Carmelite convent but shortly after her Profession, she became seriously ill and was bedridden for several years. After praying to St. Joseph, she gradually recovered. In 1558, she was inspired to return the Order to its original ideal of prayer and contemplative union with God through a reform of the Carmelite nuns and, later, with the help of St. John of the Cross, of the Carmelite friars. Her books The Way of Perfection, The Interior Castle, and The Foundations, highlight her teachings on prayer, her ardent love for the sacred humanity of Jesus, her devotion to Mary and her profound religious experiences. She is the first woman Doctor of the Church, the "Mystical Mother", who made an important contribution to the knowledge of God through her writing on theology, spirituality and the defense of the faith.
